“Adults should recognise how easy it is to take advantage of someone who is vulnerable and younger – especially if they are under the influence. It’s illegal and irresponsible. How would you feel if this happened to your daughter??”
“I feel like we should have made her stay with us that night – been more aware.”
“Twinkle, twinkle little Star, you don’t know how loved you are.”
“I feel like in my life I have worked hard at different times to build myself and my life up - building blocks I suppose – but that they would always just get kicked down.”
“Adults shouldn’t tell young people that they will be ok – it just pushes them away. We need them to do something about it not just listen to the whole conversation and not do anything about it.”
“I’m not sure if I want to see my dad or not, I think I want to make a decision on that when I’m older. It felt weird for him to get in contact with me on Facebook – a bit like a stranger I knew. It made it easier for me to talk to him through social media; if it was in person I would probably freeze up – I wouldn’t know what to say.”
“Adults need to remember that they don’t have rights just by being adults - but children do have a right not to be hurt by them.”
“I want to tell a story about danger but also about love. I’ve seen it happen and I’ve been through it myself.”
“I am not a native.
- I am a settler, an outsider.”
“Who was Izzy supposed to talk to? She felt embarrassed, ashamed and scared.”
“My story is set in 2013. My father was abusive and violent towards my mother and in the end my mum couldn’t cope anymore and left to go to Brighton to get away from him. My gran stayed with me but eventually left. The problem was that I was then left with my dad.”
“I’m 15 years old, something happened to me in the past that I’ve had help with but is still difficult to talk about. I guess I view the world slightly differently perhaps due to my autism. I like writing poetry and art in my free time but that’s not what this story’s about. It’s about something that has quite possibly happened to someone you know but they might not have had the courage to tell you yet.”
“Amy is unable to make decisions for herself and is always told what to do and where to go and who to see.”
“It doesn’t matter if someone doesn’t believe you – it only matters that you are honest with yourself. Never doubt yourself. Trying to harm yourself doesn’t help.”
“I put my fears aside of me,
But the bullets start firing,
Hard to believe but am scared of the dark,
Someone will pull me to the corner,
But the loyalty of friendship will brighten up the Flashlight”
“I have a wall up where I hide my emotions. I absolutely hate crying in front of anyone. I think someone saw a vulnerability in me. I don’t think I’ll be able to let my guard down again. Maybe not right now- maybe in the far future.”
“Adults shouldn’t tell young people that they will be ok – it just pushes them away. We need them to do something about it not just listen to the whole conversation and not do anything about it.”
© Billie 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“Twinkle, twinkle little Star, you don’t know how loved you are.”
© Anya 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“Adults should recognise how easy it is to take advantage of someone who is vulnerable and younger – especially if they are under the influence. It’s illegal and irresponsible. How would you feel if this happened to your daughter??”
© Avlon 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“My story is set in 2013. My father was abusive and violent towards my mother and in the end my mum couldn’t cope anymore and left to go to Brighton to get away from him. My gran stayed with me but eventually left. The problem was that I was then left with my dad.”
© Minnie 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I’m 15 years old, something happened to me in the past that I’ve had help with but is still difficult to talk about. I guess I view the world slightly differently perhaps due to my autism. I like writing poetry and art in my free time but that’s not what this story’s about. It’s about something that has quite possibly happened to someone you know but they might not have had the courage to tell you yet.”
© MMCC 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK
“I feel like we should have made her stay with us that night – been more aware.”
© Amoya 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I put my fears aside of me, But the bullets start firing, Hard to believe but am scared of the dark, Someone will pull me to the corner, But the loyalty of friendship will brighten up the Flashlight”
© Vanessa 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I’m not sure if I want to see my dad or not, I think I want to make a decision on that when I’m older. It felt weird for him to get in contact with me on Facebook – a bit like a stranger I knew. It made it easier for me to talk to him through social media; if it was in person I would probably freeze up – I wouldn’t know what to say.”
© Carys 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I am not a native.
- I am a settler, an outsider.”
© Jude 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I have a wall up where I hide my emotions. I absolutely hate crying in front of anyone. I think someone saw a vulnerability in me. I don’t think I’ll be able to let my guard down again. Maybe not right now- maybe in the far future.”
© Zarin 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I feel like in my life I have worked hard at different times to build myself and my life up - building blocks I suppose – but that they would always just get kicked down.”
© Ashley ‘Flipmode’ 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK
“Amy is unable to make decisions for herself and is always told what to do and where to go and who to see.”
© Shaan 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“Who was Izzy supposed to talk to? She felt embarrassed, ashamed and scared.”
© Lillie 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I want to tell a story about danger but also about love. I’ve seen it happen and I’ve been through it myself.”
© Haleema 2016 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“I’m 15 years old, something happened to me in the past that I’ve had help with but is still difficult to talk about. I guess I view the world slightly differently perhaps due to my autism. I like writing poetry and art in my free time but that’s not what this story’s about. It’s about something that has quite possibly happened to someone you know but they might not have had the courage to tell you yet.”
© MMCC 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK

“Adults need to remember that they don’t have rights just by being adults - but children do have a right not to be hurt by them.”
© Crystal 2015 | PhotoVoice | NWG | ‘Having Our Say 3’ | UK